Dear Miss Parlow

I was very glad to receive your letter, and I hope the gripppe will not be an obstacle for your concerts at Zurich, and I should like - for your advantage - that you will play as awfully in Zurich as in Geneva. I am not surprised your violin seems to be better in its country than here, because I think old instruments of value have their own secret life. The pleasure to be back in Italia makes it sing more wonderfully.

Shortly after your departure C. Frick was playing here the concertos en la majeure by Mozart, he played it so exceedingly well I never before heard it. Perhaps you will take the catalogue I am sending you as a souvenir of your
